

HEMEROCALLIS (DAYLILIES) SELECTIONS

Hybridizers have been busy improving plant characteristics so that we have an increasingly wide range of heights, fragrances, bloom sizes, colours, bud counts, bloom periods and petal shapes available to us. Daylilies are now considered one of the most popular of all flowering perennials.

Although each bloom will only last for one day, there can be so many buds on a single flower scape that a clump, once established, can bloom for a very long time. Some cultivars continue to send up more scapes and extend the flowering season even further. By selecting Daylilies with different bloom times, you can have a continuous flower display all season. All prefer full sun or partial shade. For the best flowers, plant where there is good drainage, feed each spring and water deeply, at the roots, during dry spells. They can be easily divided at any time by root division.

There is no question that collecting Daylilies is addictive. The choices are staggering as thousands of hybrids are now available. They are attractive, easy to grow, adaptable to most soils, tolerant of being neglected and relatively insect and disease free.
